

URBAN HOME DINING

You're invited to dine with an urban Bangalorean family. What a great way to learn how people eat, what they chat about with each other around the dining table, the senses they use to experience the food, and what goes into an authentic home menu (vs the very misleading menus one sees in restaurants). In Bangalore, there are so many different societies, each with their own unique way of living. Learn the protocols of visiting a local home, the way people greet each other, engage in small talk, and so much more about the culture by signing up for this experience.
