

VILLAGE HOME DINING

There is a huge difference between the way people live and eat in the cities, and the way they live and eat in villages and small towns. This experience takes you to experience the hospitality of families that live in towns and villages on the outskirts in Bangalore. You dine on a banana leaf, sometimes sit on the floor, you eat with your fingers (okay, there are spoons too but they love you to try!). You get to see the refreshing and quaint surroundings or small towns, tucked away in the countryside. And you get to chit chat the local village way, with the families that host you. In incredibly heartwarming experience!
