

FARMERS MARKET TOUR

Culinary experiences start way before the table, or even the kitchen. They start at the level of fresh ingredients, unbottled, unpackaged, and at their source. We take you for a sensory stroll through the farmer's bazaar, where every morning farmers bring their wares straight from the fields. Besides discovering what might to you be new species of vegetable and fruit, you also learn about the culture around food sourcing, try to understand the knack of choosing, witness bargaining, and hear the signature shouts of the vegetable sellers trying to outcry their competition. The little walk through the aromatic spice market and the colourful flower market are unforgettable to your senses.
